SITUATION AT PARIS

A Review of the Philippine Question.

NO AMERICAN GREED FOR TERRITORY

The State of Affairs In Luson Makes American Possession a Necessity-A Division of the Islands Impossible.

PARIS, Nov. 4-Last Monday the United States and Spanish peace commissioners left the definite limitations of the protocol and entered upon the wide field of diplomacy, where an open question is to be decided. Both commissions realize that the area is ample enough for some maneuvering, though on the American side the tendency is to evolutions much more compact than those of the Spaniards. Both would undoubtedly be gratified to reach a mutual conclusion without compulsion.

At Monday's joint session the American commissioners laid down a proposition in two parts: First, that the United States should take over the Philippines entire; second, that in so doing they should reimburse to Spain the sum of her permanent and pacific expenditure in the Philippines. The logic of the situation compelled the Americans to make the first move.

Having heard the American proposition, the Spanlards might have immediately declined it, as they certainly will do at today's session. Whether they will accompany the refusal with a counter proposition has not been definitely ascertained, though at a late hour last evening that course seemed improbable. The result will be that the commissions will retire from confronting positions until one or the other shall have reformed its lines for the next meeting, which will probably occur next week. If the Spanish commissioners entertain a hope that after the elections in the United States the American commissioners will relax their demands as to the Philippines, they have not uttered it here for the public ear, nor has anything been said or done by any member of the United States commission to warrant such a hope.

The American commissioners came to Paris with no greed for the Philippine territory per se. To an unofficial bystander the question with them has seemed to be rather to find the right path and to walk in it, than by a bold use of power to wrench the utmost advantage from a distressed opponent.

The fact is the commissioners have felt that the conditions precedent render the letting go of the Philippines as difficult as their retention. There is, for instance, the question of the future of Aguinaldo, his chiefs and followers. The Philippine leader and his immediate associates in the insurrection accepted exile and over $500,000 at the hands of Spain as an inducement to cease their rebellion. They went to China, but they were brought back to the Philippines on board a United States warship. Aguinaldo received from Admiral Dewey several thousand stands of arms and was put ashore as an ally of the United States in the war against Spain.

The insurgent leader and his chiefs have forfeited their lives. Should the United States return the Philippines to Spain, Aguinaldo and his fighting followers must be surrendered to death or taken away by the United States, and the American commissioners feel that transplanting them would be as severe toward them as it would be impracticable from the point of view of the United States. Territory to shelter them is felt necessary in the Philippines.

The entire group might not be necessary for this purpose. Should, then, the United States retain Luzon as their place of refuge? To do this would be to take the most valuable portion of the archipelago, an act which might furnish a basis for the dual charge of greed in taking the best and of cowardice in evading responsibility for the remainder. The American commissioners have been unwilling to place the United States in such a position,

Again, there arose the pregnant question of undesirable neighbors should only Januar he taken. An aggressively disposed power might acquire Mindoro. which is almost within cannon shot of Luzon, and thus create a most difficult situation. Could then a wiser division of the islands be made?

Pursuing this inquiry, the most feasible division seemed to be Luzon, Mindoro and Palawan, forming a chain free of neighbors on the western boundary, but so closely tangled on the eastern side as to make impossible a line of geographical division at once equitable and safe.

The American commissioners have not been unmindful of the fact that circumstances, partially of their shaping, had imposed upon the United States a constructive responsibility for the Philippines and that either this must be forsaken or a larger one assumed.

They have believed, too, that before the nations of the world the United States have assumed the higher responsibility of the stable control of the entire group, and with a sense of specific and general obligation they felt compelled to propose to take over all. On the question of the Spanish debt, by whatever name known, the American commissioners seem to take broader ground than the mere question of dollars. It is evident they do not favor encounter any bad weather. coupling any power in debt responsito direct adjustments on the plain basis of facts and equities. Whether the war ledgers of Spain and the United States are to be balanced in the present negotiations does not appear, but the Americans face the situation open eyed and with minds free to any argument based upon justice to Spain and fair treatment of their own national interests.

It is learned from Spanish sources, beyond question authentic, that before the Philippine question is settled the Spanish commissioners will declare that they are not here solely to save or to gain all the money possible from the United States. Senor Montero Rios, president of the Spanish commission, and his colleagues, waiving for argument any classification of the Spanish or colonial debts, will point out that Spain has borrowed on the collateral of her colonial revenue. They will concede that the national guarantee may have been added, but that for all the purposes of this contention the fact is irrelevant.

It will then be frankly urged by her commissioners that Spain has pawned the revenues of the Philippines and of Cuba, that she did so in good faith to her creditors, and, this being true, that she has no moral right to give away or rehypothecate territory already pledged. Senor Rios will urge that should Spain take that course her creditors might fairly charge her with defrauding them to save for herself the Canaries, Carolines and Balearic islands and to avoid possible damage to the peninsula. The Spanish commissioners will protest that such a transaction would be intolerable to Spain, as it would brand her as a robber and poltroon. They will declare to the Americans that rather than be so pilloried by their creditors they will, if they must, be deprived of their remaining colonies and suffer devastation of their mainland.

If the United States feels it a high duty to retain the Philippines, Spain's envoys will declare that she has an equally sacred duty in holding them to the pledge of their revenues in honorable indebtedness, and that, while possibly unable to make good the indebtedness in dollars, Spain can, if only by a fruitless adherence to high purposes, save her name from the brand of theft. This statement of the Spanish contention comes from a source which gives it all the weight possible to any Spanish utterance, and in the presence of these conditions the two commissions will meet again tomorrow, MADRID. Nov. 4,--The announces ment of the intentions of the United States regarding the Philippines has greatly excited the public here. It is generally recognized, however, that it would be absolutely futile to appeal to Europe, which has abandoned Spain to her tate.

The newspaners protest vicorously against the "incredible cynicism and abuse of strength of the Americans." The ministerial El Globa exclaims: "Europe and America seem determined to sanction by cowardice and selfishness a crime that will be a blot

A STARTLING STORY

Did Marchand Promise Protection to the Khalifa?

SAID TO HAVE SENT FRENCH FLACS

Damning Disputches Alleged to Have Been Captured-Marchand at Cairo-Refuses to Be Interviewed-Admiralty Active.

LONDON, Nov. 4.-A story of the greatest gravity, circulating last night among persons in touch with official quarters, alleges that when Marchand reached Fashoda he sent two messengers with three French flags to the khalifa and a letter saying if the khalifa hoisted these flags at Omdurman he would be under the protection of "the great French nation," and the British would not fire upon him.

The khalifa replied that two British "dogs" had attacked Sudan. One "dog" named Gordon had been killed, while the other "dog," named Kitchener, he was about to kill.

He would then wipe out the French. Both of these letters and the three flags are said to have been captured by the sirdar's officers.

If this be confirmed, it is obvious that public opinion here will be inflamed at the discovery of the fact that a French agent offered protection to the khalifa while the French government congratulated the British government on a vic-tory for the sake of civilization.

MARCHAND AT CAIRO.

CAIRO, Nov. 4.-Major Marchand, the commander of the French expedition at Fashoda, arrived here at 7 o'clock last evening.

He was met at the railroad station by the French officials and residents.

The explorer looked thin and worried. Only two Senegalese soldiers accompanied Major Marchand, whose future movements depend upon the instructions which Captain Baratier brings him tomorrow.

At the French agency it was formally announced that no one would be permitted to interview the French officer, as M. Delcasse, the French minister of foreign affairs, and the Marquis of Salisbury must be the first to "receive all news which may contribute to the harmony of the two countries."

A FUGITIVE RETURNS

Interesting Development In Pennsylvania Politics.

KEYSTONE BANK SCANDAL REVIVED.

President Marsh, After Eluding Offsers For Seven Years, Sees John Wanamaker's Appeal and Gives Himself Up-Forfeited Bond.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.-Gideon W. Marsh, the fugitive president of the Meystone bank, has answered the appeal made by Mr. John Wanamaker and surrendered yesterday. Marsh has been a fugitive since May 15, 1891, when he forfeited the bail of $20,000, which had been entered by William H. Wanamaker, brother of John Wanamaker.

Marsh has been in the state of Washington for some time. He read Mr. John Wanamaker's speech and at once put himself in communication with friends and arranged for his return. He came the city from New York yesterday morning and went straight to William M. Wanamaker's office, where he was doneted with Mr. Wanamaker until hte in the afternoon.

At 3:45 o'clock Marsh was taken to the postoffice building, where he was handed over to the United States marshal and arraigned before United States Commissioner Bell. The closing of the doors of the Keystone National bank on March 20, 1891, eaused a profound sensation. A run had been made on the bank a few months prior to that date, but the crisis was tided over, and the public was taken by surprise when the failure beeame known. Subsequent investigation showed that the bank had been practically looted and that there was little left for depositors and other creditors. City Treasurer John Bardsley had loaned to the bank several thousand dollars of the city funds, and on these loans he had been drawing interest for his own individual profit. Bardsley was arrested, and his trial resulted in a sentence of 15 years' imprisonment in the Eastern penitentiary, several years of which he served. He was finally pardoned by the state board of pardons.

President Marsh and Cashier Charles Lawrence were placed under arrest on May 4, 1891, charged with conspiracy to make false entries in the books of the bank and the willful misapplication of as funds. When arraigned before United States Commissioner Bell they were held for a hearing on May 15. Both secured bondsmen and were released. Marsh induced William H. Wanamaker, brother of ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, to enter bail for him. which he did in the amount of $20,000. On May 21, the day fixed for a final hearing, Lawrence appeared, but Marsh had fled. The bail furnished for his appearance was forfeited, and the en-Mre amount of $20,000 was paid to the elerk of the United States district court by William H. Wanamaker.

Since that date, it is said, Mr. Wanamaker has spent $20,000 more to apprehend Marsh and bring him to trial. Lawrence was convicted and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment, which he served, less the commutation for good

Marsh managed to elude the officers of the law, who searched the entire country for him, and the detectives were even sent to points in South America, whence there had come reports that the fugitive had been seen. Even after the United States authorities had abandoned their search it was kept up by Marsh's bondsman, but without success Not until last Wednesday did his bondsman get an inkling of his whereabouts. Then a telegram to William H Wanamaker's office stated that Marsh was at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, New York city, and would surrender to him in Philadelphia. Mr. Wanamaker, who was in Boston, was immediately advised, and he left that city for New York at once. It is understood that the agitive and his bondsman met in New York Wednesday night and the agreement was there reached for Marsh to come to Philadelphia yesterday and surrender to the authorities

This programme was carried out Without being recognized on the street Marsh went direct to Mr. Wanamaker's office and later in the day, accompanied by his lawyer and Mr. Wanamaker, he proceeded to the office of United States District Attorney Beck and was committed to prison to awalt a hearing.

Marsh, in talking to friends who called on him in the United States marshal's office before he was taken to prison, said that in the more than seven years of his absence he had roamed almost over the whole world and worked for a living at anything he could get to do. When he left, he had with him $1,385, which he had collected from two friends who owed him that amount. He went by a circuitous route to Brazil and afterward traveled from place to place all over the world. He then returned to America and eventually located in the state of Washington, where, he said, he had earned money at any kind of labor he could get. He said he often longed to come back to Philadelphia, but was deterred through a desire to protect his children from scandal. He felt that to return would revive a state of affairs that would be a scandal to his family. Mrs. Marsh, by the way, obtained a divorce from the fugitive about a year ago on the ground of desertion, she making affidavit that she had received no word from her husband since the day of his departure

The name of the fugitive has frequently been mentioned in the utterances of speakers at political mass meetings in the present furiously ox Hing campaign, and March has particularly been the subject of heated controversy between United States Senator Penrose and John Wanamaker.

In a speech a few weeks ago S-nator Penrose intimated that John Wanamker, prior to the failure of the Keystone bank, had knowledge of an overissue of the bank's stock and knowledge of a demand made by President Marsh on City Ti asurer Bardsley for an additional deposit of city funds. He (Penrose) said it was to the interest of Wanamaker that Marsh should not come back to Philadelphia. The sinator said he had been in communication with Marsh and that the latter would , WeCoHoch Non in Revenue Service, probably soon come back and tell all he knew about the looting of the bank

Mr. Wanamaker has been vigorously opposing the Republican state ticket and especially siming to defeat the reelection of Senator Quay to the United States senate.

On Oct. 14, a few nights after the speech of Senator Penrose accusing Wanamaker of having inside knowledge of the Keystone bank's affairs, the latter delivered a speech at the Academy of Music. He denied Penrose's statements and called upon him to hasten the return of Marsh if the senator in any way could do so. He said he would like the truth to be told about Keystone bank matters and said none could clear up the affair better than Marsh himself.

In the course of his speech he said: "There is nothing that will please me so much as Marsh's return, and I welcome the reopening of every book and paper of the bank to public gaze, even as I did years ago. If my foes will bring this man, doubtless more sinned against than sinning, into court and he will tell the truth, I will use my utmost endeavor in securing all the leniency possible in his sentence, and after he has finished it I will aid him in re-establishing himself and his family in life. I publish this to the world, hop ng he will see it, wherever he is, and add to it that I have friends who will put in the hands of Quay, Penrose and Andraws whatever money is needed to pay the expenses of Marsh's return, as they seem to know where he is. One of them claims to have been in communication with him recently. If the poor man, who can yet redeem his life, who must have been crazed when he ran away (poor Hopkins unwisely killed himself under similar circumstances), will send me word where he is as soon as these words bear him the message of these dastardly assaults upon me. I will come to him to any part of the world and accompany him back.

BOW TO DRESS FOWLS.

In This Respect Causes Considerable Loss to Growers and Shippers.

A well-dressed fowl will of course command a higher price than a poor sy-dressed one, and it is evident there must be quite a loss to the growers and shippers of poultry on this account, and it might not come amiss to give a as there does not seem to be any need of dressing them poor of list of all, crops of all fowns to be killed for martake is generally made by not banging the fowl up while stripping off the feathers, but holding it with one hand and picking it with the other One can work rapidly when the bird

A misis hanging, as both hands are then at liberty: the cuticle, a transparent outside covering of the fowl, is very easily injured, particularly of a scalded bird and when the bire is held while pick ing it this membrane is often rubbed off in spots: and although this injury does not seem to show much at first afterwards these spots turn dark, g ving the bird an unsightly appearance. Overscaldi, g also loosens the cuticle; therefore we should exercise great care not to keep the birds in hot water fer too long a time when scalding them. POULTRY DISEASES

They are More Easily Exterminated Than the Diseases Affecting Other Kinds of Stock.

It is probably easier to exterminate poultry diseases than the diseases that affect any other kind of stock. This is because poultry can be kept iso lated. Horses are constantly meeting and coming into the vicinity of other horses Cattle run in adjoining pastures. Hogs are transported from place to place and are great roamers in their pastures. But fowls may be kept practically isolated. It is even not common for hens on one farm to mingle with those of the next.

We believe that with proper management the poultry diseases may be practically exterminated. Have the feed right and then keep all things serupulously clean. Let in the sun and keep the dust box full of good dust. Give fresh water every day These will mean that the hens will be free from disease. Were these things observed universally there is no doubt that some, if not all, of our contagious diseases among poultry must soon die out. Where a flock has a certain disease the fowls could be allowed to die or be killed and the place where they had been kept used for keeping fowls observation that there are many flocks where disease is practically unknown A good many poultrymen know nothing of the cholera except what they read in the paper. HEART DISEASE.

SOME FACTS REGARDING THE RAPID INCREASE OF HEART TROUBLES.

Do Not be Alarmed, Sat Look For the Heart troubles, at least among Amerisans, are certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitment and worry of American business life. it is more often the result of weak stomach, of poor digestion,

Real, organic heart diseases is incurable; but not one case in a nundred of heart trouble is organic.

The class relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by branches of the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Passmogastric.

In another way, also the heart is affected by that form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half digested food; there is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their acting hence arises palpitution and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, makes it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digeston and to insure the prompt assimilation of

This can best be done by the regular use after meals, of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores and which contain valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure acy form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach. Full sized package of the tablets sold Frederick A. Ward, of Brookly 1, one of the Republican candidates for Justice of the Supreme Court in this district, has been appointed by Governor Black to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Van Wyck.

Under Democratic rule the city tax rate was reduced from $25.82 in 1897 to $20 this year, and no department of the city government suffered by the saving effected. The policy of strict economy that made possible this saving of over one-fifth will be continued if the Demoeratic city ticket is elected and Democrats continued in charge of city affairs.

If the Democratic candidates for memhers of the Board of Education are elected the control of that body will pass ioto Democratic hands When that time comes there will be an end to star chamber methods. The Board will have no secrets which it will conceal from the public. Isn't it about time for | ministers at Pekin. a change? If you think so vote for Messrs. Case, McBrair and Smiley.

City taxes in 1897 under Republican rule $102,787; city taxes in 1898 under Democratic rule $80,336. It's on that record and the pledge to continue the policy of economy that made the reduction possible that the Democratic party asks citizens who have the city's interests at heart to vote for Charles L. Elwood and the other candidates on the Democratic city ticket.

Unscrupulous Republican papers are trying to make a point against Edward Stocker, the Democratic candidate for County Treasurer, by saying that if elected he will move the office from Goshen to Newburgh. He will do nothing of the kind for the very excellent reason that the law requires that the office shall be kept in Goshen. A new yarn will have to be invented to stay the tide against the third term candidate.

for Member of Assembly in the First Distriet, eught to receive a very large vote. | commissions met at 2 o'clock this after-He is a young man of the highest character, whose life is above reproach and above suspicion. He has been a close ■tudent of economic problems and is well informed on all public questions. If elected, he will prove a most competent legislator and will represent the district with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of all his constituents.

The Seventy-first Regiment voted vesterday at its armory in New York city. The result was two to one in Van Wyck's favor, the soldiers showing their resentment at their treatment by the War Department by voting against the Republiean candidate. Roosevelt's insult to the national guardsmen, embodied in his false assertion, "one rough rider is as good as ten volunteers," was not forgotten, and doubtless cost him many rotes.

George E. Wallace, the Democratic candidate for city treasurer, ought to be elected by a large majority. When war clouds threatened he promptly volunteered, and so long as there was a prospect of active services remained at his post of duty. He made many sacrifices, pecumiary and otherwise, when he responded to his country's call. He was an efficient officer, popular with his men, and watchill of their comfort. He made an excellent treasurer during the short time that he held the office before resigning to go to the iront. He ought to be elected by a large majority

Charlie Elwood's Shess makes it impossible for him to make a personal canvass, but he ought to lose no votes on that account. His Democratic and Republican friends are working diligently the recent decision by the Supreme Court in his behalf, and citizens who know and of the I nited States that the efforts of appreciate his worth and his fitness for the association to control railroad rates the office of Mayor, are taking an in- were illegal terest in his emilidacy that they would not take at to were able to be on the i street- lighting his own fight. 000. This year, the requisition was $31,875, exclusive of the amounts necessary to meet the principal and interest on the High School certificates of indebtedness. The Argus has not wish to cripple the schools in any way. It may be that they are run in the most economical manner possible, but in view of the enormous increase in the cost of our educational system in accent years and under Republicas rule, wouldn't it be well to give the Democrats control of the School Board and let them see if they cannot introduce some of the economies that have saved the taxpayers so much money in other departments of the city government. Vote for Ira L. Case, Harry McBrair and Dr. Smiley.

THE CRISIS IN CHINA.

A Concerted Movement of Troops in the Vicinity of the Capital,

Pekin, Nov. 4 - In spite of formal promises of the Chinese foreign effice there is every indication of a concerted move of Chinese troops in the neighborhood of the capital.

It is said that Knig-Yi, a high Manchu official who was next in rank to the late Prince Koung in the council of state, has obtained great influence over the Dowager Empress. He is bitterly antiforeign and hopelessly conservative. It is probable that Kong-Yi was the suggestor of the edict re-establishing the how and arrow exercis for Chinese soldiers. It is reported that Yuan-Shek-Hai, the Chinese general in command of foreign drilled troops at Tien-Usin, an officer whose power is much dreaded by the dowager Empress and her advisors, has received a grant of money, ostensibly for the purpose of increasing the strength of the division to 39,000 men. If time shows that the dowager Empress can rely upon his fidelity, it has been said that Yuan-Shek-Harmight use his troops in conforming with views of the foreign

THE PEACE COMMISSION.

No Ultimatum to Be Presented by the American Commission.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paris, Nov. 4. -Astatement is printed here with much display, to the effeet that at to-day's joint session of the peace commissioners the Americans will msiet upon the complete surrender of Spain's sovereignty over the Philippine Islands, and that in the event of the Spanish commissioners refusing to agree to this, Judge Dav, acting under instructions from Washington, will present an ultimatum to the Spaniards. It is further stated that this seeming haste is due to a desire to settle negotiations before the elections in the United States take place.

There is no truth in the statements made. No ultimatum is contemplated and there is no probability of such ac tors being taken by the Americans. The two commissions are now considering an open question and Americans expect to patiently weigh all points in-J. E. THE PHILIPPINE QUESTION.

Paris, Nov. 4.—The Gaulois declares it has been informal that Spain will refuse to discuss the unconditional surrender of the Philippines. Spain, it is asserted, has made particular reserves concerning the retention of the rhilippines and the Spanish Minister of Foreign affairs, Duke Alodoyas de Rio, had himself stipulated at the time of signing the protocol that the Island of Luzon alone should remain occupied by American troops while the peace negotiations were in progress and that Spain would resume soverignty over the archipeligo as soon as a more liberal form of government for the Islands should have been decided upon.

THE "AMERICAN PIG" AGAIN. Madrid, Nov. 4 - The Imperial says 'If the United States had shown in the protocol their intention to keep the Philippines the matter would not have taken the course it did. The Republicians held a meeting at the Ca-ino, Thursday night, which gave about one thousand men, womer and children an opportunity to bear Judge Tompkins and a nice old man named Firch, who knew all about the civil war.

The enemy's blow out was opened by the parade of the avengers, or the Young Men's Republican Club. They formed on Centre street and headed by W. H. Waltoa, J. E. Gibbs, John D. Wood and Wm. Seeholzer, marched through Centre street to Depot to North to West Main to James and into the Casino, the 24th band playing away in the mean time as bard as it could.

Chairs had been placed on the stage for he youthful Republicans and flags and lithographs of "Teddy" and "Timmy" were hung from the rolled up asbestos curtain above them.

The seats in the body of the theatre were all taken when Daniel Finn. who presided, introduced Judge A. S. Tompkins, of Nyack, the Reunblican candidate for Congress. He spoke about himself and national issues, and when he had fluished Mr. Finn set the nice old man. Mr. Fitch, from New York or Nevada, going. Then Judge Tompkins and "Lou" Goodsell slipped off the stage and accompanied by Chas. L. Mead went to Port Jervis at 9:21, where they partici pated in a meeting there.

Mr. Fitch discussed the war of '62 comprebensively a d pleasantly. He maligned Democrats and everything Democratic and was listened to with politeness. He stirred up about as much cuthusiasm as Hiscock would have done, and if the Republicans can get any comfort, to-day, out of what occurred Thursday night at the Casino they are certainly welcome to

The band was forgotten by the avengers after they got on the stage and somebody escorted them to the back part of the balcony where they sweltered in semi-darkness while trying to play.

Floyd II. Reevs died at 11 o'clock, this morning, of peritonitis, aged sixty-one years. He was taken sick on Wednesday, and though it was known that his sulted. condition was critical, the news of his d-ath was a sad surprise to this community, in which he had been a promi-

Attorney General Hancock Tries to Reconcile I's Ab-ardities-Two sesstons of the supervisors Necessary.

City Clerk Taylor has received an answer to the letter which he sent to the Attorney General, October 24, in regard to the soldiers' election law, which states that votes shall be counted on the sixth turning from Goshen on their wheels, Tuesday after election and canvassed on the sixth Thursday after election, the and most disagreeable experience. When thatter coming five days before the former: The Attorney General says:

The law does not intend an absurdity. And it is the plain intent of the legislature, as manifested in this act, that the Board of County Canvassers shall convene on the Thursday following the 'sixth Tuesday after the election day," nevertheless, as the Board of Canvassers are directed to meet on the sixth Thursday after the day of election, it is plainly their duty to do so; and as there will be no votes to canvass, they may adjourn to a certain day following the sixth Tuesday after election, and then canvass the returns which may come to them from the inspectors of election; such adjournment should be the Thursday following the sixth Tuesday.

Very respectfully THEO. E. HANCOCK.

THE TRAMP'S STORY

By Kenneth Herford.

THERE sat at the doctor's front porch last Thursday evening a little group of congenial spirits com-posed of the doctor himself. Adams, of the garnish company, Cleaver, employed it the gas house; Hetherington, secretary of the Marine company; Evans, and myself.

Fresh cigars had been lighted and the doctor had said: "Now. Cleaver. it's your turn for a story," when around the side of the house came A Man. We called the stranger The Man after he had gone and we probably always shall so long as memory of him lives in our minds.

He stood on the gravel walk at the foot of the purch steps and removed his hat, a battered felt affair with half the rim gone and a hole in the crown through which protruded a wisp of hair. The Man's clothes corresponded well with his bat. They were ragged and threadbare. The bottoms of the rousers were frayed in a fringe where they fell over The Man's shoes, wornout shoes with the toes turned up and the heels run down.

When The Man removed his bat we had a better view of his face. It was iong and deeply lined. There was a light of eleverness, or rather smartness, in the sunken eyes, and the forehead was high and to a degree bulging. The eyebrows were bushy and the mouth, though weak in its droop, was finely cut, evidently the mouth of a man capable of appreciating the more refined things of life.

The stranger looked up at us. "Genrlemen." he said, "I was around at the back door a moment ago and the lady of the house said her husband was on the purch with a few friends. I merely want to ask if there is some work that i might be allowed to do around the place in exchange for a supper and a en cents with which to secure me a bed for the night?

Refore the doctor could ansker. Cleaver had whispered to bim: "Ask the fellow to come up and sit down. I'V be a almost anything the story of les life would be more interesting the anything I could tell."

"Yes, do." put in Adams.

The doctor did not argue the point. We'll my man." be said, addressing the wor-begone appearing fellow-beand who stood before him on the gravel. "I don't think there is anything to be core around the house. But I guess we our fix up the supper and the bed. tone up and sit down awhile: you apiran fired."

The Man hesitated a moment sheepis bly and then mounted the steps with calculty, either from laziness or fatione. There was a sort of a far-away and in his eyes as, he sank into the recling chair on the ductor's left.

"I'mak you," he said, as he took in open Cleaver offered him, "It's a and time since Eve smoked one of

"No. sir, not always. I was an invertor once."

"Tell me about it, won't you?" urged

"Fitteen years ago." he continued. "I ers a well-to-do man. With no attachments in the way of wife or family, my mores were spent in my workshop in but wille. down the corridors of the ages yet to come. Those were happy days, gentlemen, and I was the happiest man on earth; for had I not perfected the most astonishing machine man had ever dreamed of? How little then did I ever think that it would turn out to be a Frankenstein that would rise up in its might and destroy me at one fell 2woop. Yes, thought I, wealth and

I get it on the market-"

The Man looked out into vacancy for a moment, and then crossing his right leg over the left knee and tapping the ash from his eighr, replied: Yes, I suppose I might as well-now. It can do no harm. You see," he continued, "in the first place it was an electric milker. Its system of guide wheels was so complete and perfect that it acted as though it were possessed of intelligence. Gentlemen, that milker ran itself. It was only necessary that the cattle be driven into a ten-acre lot and the machine set-going. Gentlemen, whether you believe it or not. it is nevertheless a fact that that machine would make for the milch cowe only. It wouldn't run within ten feet of a calf or a steer. It was worth going ten miles to see that milker dodge stumps. Its movements were the poetry of motion. Its four little legs twong along as rhythmically beautiful as a quatrain by Kipling-"

"But where was the milk collected?" asked the Doctor.

"I am coming to that," replied The Man. "From the tank of the milker proper there extended back to the edge of the lot four rubber tubes, the other ends of which were fastened inside a porcelain bathtub standing on its own platform on the other side of the pasture fence. The tubes, being on the reel in the milker, and rubber at that, would of course stretch as the ground covered by the milker in-

"And, gentlemen, the strangest thing about my milker was that it was its own skimmer, its own churn. its own cutter, its own stamper. You think I am telling you an untruth. I will explain. As the milk ran through these rubber tubes to the bathtub on the other side of the fence and fell into the little rat there prorided, a set of paddles were put into operation that so jiggled the milk that the cream rose to the surface almost instantly. This cream could be bottled there at once and taken to the dairy house, or wherever else it was needed. by the bathtub attendant. The remaining milk was handled in this way. The aforesaid paddles did not cease operations. They continued their constant churning until the butter had thoroughly formed, when four knives would drop from the top of the tub and ent it into chucks of the required size. These would be instantly seized by another set of paddles, which would work the butter and roll it into long

"That was all there was to the machine," said The Man, "It was upon that machine that I based my hopes; it was by that machine that they were shattered.

"What about the trial?" "It was made out in Washienaw county, this state. I had managed to interest a dairyman by the name of Sutherland, who lived about six miles east of Ypsilanti. I took the machine down there. It was a beautiful day in early summer. It was the grass

"I shall never forget the result of that trial as long as I live. "With a whirr and a rip of wheels that milker started for a milch cow about ten rods down the pasture. The cow heard the noise and turned. Instantly her ears and tail stood perpendicularly parallel. She gave one deep low and made a break for the open even before the other cows in the field had had time to observe the cause of her fright. She dashed through the rail fence and broke for the road, with that milker after her-At the shattered fence the machine hesitated an instant, owing to the tubes having stretched to their utmost, then with a snort, it seemed to me, the milker tore loose from the wires and rubber of her fastenings and darted after that cow. On and on she sped-the cow. And on and on down that country road dashed the milker. The speed of each was awful. Sutherland and I ran across lots to head off either the cow or the milker, but when we reached the road, half a mile below, we were just in time to see the milker pass on its wild chase. There, upon a little knoll, we watched it tearing through the dust after the cow. On and on it ran notil finally it had crossed the last hillock of the road and then it disappeared. I said nothing. Leaving the bathtub attachment by the pasture fence. I went back to the cross-roads station and took the train for Huntsville. Later I had to pay for the cow, for she never refrom his chair, and taking a dollar from his vest pocket offered it to the man. Thereupon each of us gave hima coin. He stood and bowed his thanks, Then he put on that battered hat and slipped down the steps. We heard the gravel eranch beneath his heels, The darkness of the night swallowed him and he disappeared.

VITALITY OF SEEDS.

Experiments at the Indiana Station Prove That Freezing Does Not Affect It.

In case seeds are well dried before freezing weather sets in, common experience has shown that the vitality is not destroyed by freezing weather. This has been repeatedly shown in sorn from the crib of the experiment station. Although exposed to all the vicissitudes of our variable winters we have frequently found that 95 to 100 per cent. of the corn would germinate. The corn grown at this station is a medium variety which matures and dries out before severe freezing weather begins. In case partially cured corn is subjected to severe freezing the vitality of the germ is injured and frequently destroyed. The sad experience of many farmers attests the truth of this statement. Careful, observant farmers have long noted the ill effects of freezing on partially cured corn, hence they gather their seed corn early so that it may become well dried out before setting in of very cold weather. It is well known that dry seeds will bear exposure to low temperatures without losing the power to germinate. Whether such low temperature injures the vitality without entirely destroying it, is a question I am not as yet prepared to answer. The injury, if any, to dry seeds from freezing is at least imperceptible. There are those who believe that the exposing of even dry seeds—especially seed corn—to a freezing temperature, will injure the vitality of the germ, but I do not recall any experimental tests that demonstrate this to be true. For all practical purposes it is quite sufficient for the farmer to know that if his seeds are well cured before very cold weather begins, he may expect them to retain the power to germinate even though exposed to severe freezing weather. In many instances seeds thus cured and exposed have been found to germinate 100 per cent, and with a satisfactory degree of vitality. -W. C. Latta, in Prairie Farmer.

A GOOD PLANK DRAG.

It's a Very Effective Implement and One That Any Farmer Can Make in a Few Hours.

For some kinds of work this drag is hetter than a roller. Any farmer can make one in a few hours. The one I use is made of three boards, seven feet long and eight inches wide. Place the plank eight inches apart, take two pieces of two by four, long enough to bolt across each end to hold the plank in place. Fit on the two by fours or crosspieces by first sawing into the upper and front edge of each plank and split off a triangular shaped piece, so that when the crosspieces are bolted on the front edge of the bottom of each plank will be about three inches from the ground. The crosspieces should be bolted on with two bolts through each board.

Some old drag or harrow teeth are put through the front board four inches apart, the holes being bored so the teeth will slant back, which prevents clogging. An old mowing machine seat is fastened to the center of the middle plank. The drag can be drawn by a tongue fastened similar to a wagon, or by a short chain in such a manner that the draft is from the center. This implement works as well on any kind of ground when first plowed, and will fit it in good shape for the harrow or cultivator. It will leave the surface more level and finer than a roller. I keep one in the field while plowing, and with it go over what is plowed each day. This levels and fines the surface so that the moisture is retained .- John Jackson, in Farm and Home.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

Soils rich in humus hold the moisture longer against evaporation, and a humus soil, when dry, probably makes the most effective soil mulch.

We do not always make repairs when we should, do we? We make nothing by not doing such work promptly, do we?

Some one has said: "The frying pan is the curse of the American nation. The poor, hurried housewife would bake her biscuit or boil her coffee in it if she could."

Subsoils rich in iron are usually retentive of moisture. For this reason a red subsoil, if not too sandy, is usually a good foundation for the surface soil to rest on.

Isolation is not always immunity from contagion, and, while our towns show the greater number of infectious diseases, country places frequently show a greater per cent, of fatality from want of prompt attention or im possibility of getting it.

It is sometimes noticeable that the farmer who has grown old has lost ambition, and be permits buildings and fences to fall to the ground. It is better from every standpoint to avoid getting into a condition like that, even if it does require an effort

It six inches deep of fine dry soil is moistened with 20 per cent, of water and then thoroughly cultivated it will be raised up two or three inches higher, making a depth of eight to nine inches. If heavy rains should follow and fully saturate this soil it would settle down to six inches of depth again, but if light rains followed is would not settle more thus one inch.

Well, if you have any doubts about it, study the history of coal mining for the past ten years. Look at the saw factories that have been closed by the saw trust, the dozen rubber factories closed by the U.S. Rubber Co. and any other industry you can think of controlled by syndicates or trusts.

How do you know this?

EDITOR INDEPENDENT REPUBLICAN:-A body of men which represented us met at Middletown, October 7, and in their best judgment nominated Samuel D. Roberson, of Crawford, for Member of that matter in their own minds and thought it wise to select a plain, common sense man to fill the important office-one who does not walk around with Hon, over his head, but instead a plain Mr. In the days of Adams, Jackson, etc., such men were selected, and their Congress consisted of men, instead of money. Mr. Roberson 's not a stranger to the public, and his friends and neighbors consider him worthy of the office, and who knows a man better than those who are in daily contact ! with him and have a chance to know his value on every occasion? He has represented his town in the Board of Supervisors for eleven years, and his record in that body is not only clear, but shows he was the right man in the right place. He supported such measures as were for the benefit of the town and county which he represented. He is now before the public to step up higher, and why not give him a chance to show what a man with a kind, honest heart, well educated brain, good judgment, capable and worthy of the office and emolaments will do when more is required? He will not betray your trust, and whenever he is wanted you will find him in the right place and ready to do his duty. His judgment and capabilities will lead him to act wisely and teatlessly. Now, voters of all parties, think the mutter over, and when election day comes be sure and cast your vote for Samuel D. Roberson for Congress, and in the future you will be proud of Women Everywhere Express their Gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham.

Ars. T. A. WALDEN, Gibson, Ga., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-Before taking your medicine, life was a burden to me. I never saw a well day. At my monthly period I suffered untold misery, and a great deal of the time I was troubled with a severe pain in my side. Before finishing the first bottle of your Vegetable Compound I could tell it was doing me good. I continued its use, also used the Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, and have been greatly helped. I would like to have you use my letter for the benefit of others."

Mrs. FLORENCE A. WOLFE, 513 Mulberry St., Lancaster, Chio, writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-For two years I was troubled with what the local physicians told me was inflammation of the womb. Every month I suffered terribly. I had taken enough medicine from the doctors to cure anyone, but obtained relief for a short time only. At last I concluded to write to you in regard to my case, and can say that by following your advice I am now perectly well."

firs. W. R. BATES, flansfield, La., writes:

"Before writing to you I suffered dreadfully from painful menstruation, leucorrhea and sore feeling in the lower part of the bowels. Now my friends want to know what makes me look so well. I do not hesitate one minute in telling them what has brought about this great change. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is the greatest remedy of the age.

W. D. STRATTON'S STABLE.

the Wandsome Team Mis Trainer is Briving-Pie Ljere and Other Good Ones.

"Tom" Pinchin, W. D. Stratton's trainer and driver, attracts considerable attention on the streets, nowadays, sailing through town in an old-fashioned Sullivan county buckboard wagon drawn by a fine team of roadsters.

Mr Stratton has, for several years, done much toward encouraging the breeding of good horses and furthering the interest in harness racing in this Piuchin's road team consists of Crespo and Retta. Crespo is a six-year-old horse by Delmar, record 2:16%. His dam was Addie S. by Bona Fide. Retta is a four-year-old filly by Pie Lijero. Her dam was Harmonie, by Almont's Star. She is a very pleasant driver and bids tair to be fast. Crespo is a perfect road horse. He is fine looking, prompt, and has shown a mile in private in 2:26. They are a spanking team and are much admired by local horsemen.

Pie Lijero, which this season took a mark of 2:24%, is a handsome chestnut stallion fitteen and a half hands high and is probably one of the finest horses standing for service in Orange county. He was bred by W. E. Spire, of Glen's Falls, who bought Directum last week for $20,000. Pie Lijero was by May King, dam Miss Magee. He is a very good dispositioned horse and is safe for a child to drive and handle. He has several very promising colts. None of them, however, have yet been handled for speed.

Mr. Stratton also bas several other fine road ho-ses and brood mares. Mr. Pinchin will attend the next sale at the American Horse Exchange and will probably purchase several head of fine
